Lifestyle in Germany

Abundance of Travel Opportunities

Germany is centrally located, making it easy to explore other nearby countries and cultures without visa.

Excellent Work-Life Balance

Germans are entitled to at least 20 vacation days per year by law. So you can enjoy plenty of time off to explore all that Europe has to offer without sacrificing your career or well-being.

Plenty of Adventures

There are plenty of outdoor activities to keep you busy, from hiking and biking to skiing and snowboarding.

Lifestyle in Germany

Job Security

Germany is running out of workers. They need young students and employees outside the EU to sustain their economy. So, you're more likely to find secure works in Germany than in many other countries.

Safe Place to Live

Germany is a very safe country. Crimes rates are low compared to other countries and the law is strictly enforced. So, you can freely walk late at night on the streets of Germany.

13th Rank in Happiness Index

Germany comes under the top 15 countries. The quality of life in Germany is excellent. Germans have a reputation for being efficient and orderly, but they also know how to enjoy themselves.

Free Higher Education

Higher education in Germany is free – even for international students. You can take advantage of world-class universities at no cost.
